MINIMUM WAS ONLY 72 LAST NIGHT. 76 AT 7 A. M. TODAY

Today the weathermen expect the temperature to be the highest of any day this summer and at seven o'clock, the mercury had a good start to reach an all summer high.

At seven this morning, The Daily Banner thermometer registered 76 degrees, with a minimum of 72 reached during the night. It was the warmest night of the present summer and the temperature was the highest of any morning this summer.

Chicago and Indianapolis reported the mercury would climb to the high 90's during the day, with a maximum in Chicago of 96. Indianapolis was not expected to be far behind that figure.

Revised estimates of today's weather by the Indianapolis bureau said the mercury would not go beyond 93 or 94 late today.

A sizzling heat wave returned to the Midwest today with 100-plus temperatures and wilting humidity.

Summer weather belted other parts of the country with drenching rainfalls and flash floods.

BURGLAR HALTS WATER DRILLING

Thieves last night dealt a blow to the progress of construction on Brazil's Water Works expansion program. It was reported today to Brazil police that about $2,000 worth of tires and wheels were stolen from well drilling equipment at Big Walnut Creek. V. A. King, driller for the Lane Northern Co. of Indianapolis, reported the theft this morning. He said the thieves jacked up two well drill rigs and a tractor to remove the tires and wheels. He and other workmen were preparing to test the two wells they drilled there last week.

The wells are located 8 miles east of Brazil on the south side of U. S. 40. It is the site for the city's new water supply.

The theft is being investigated by the Putnam County sheriff's office since the site is in that county.

Work at the well-site will be halted until new tires and wheels are obtained, King said.

CONFERENCE OF METHODISTS HAVE FINE SPEAKERS

SPEAKER AT TOWN AND COUNTRY MEET SAYS MARX MISSED

BLOOMINGTON, July 26.—"Karl Marx missed the boat. He talked about an industrial revolution. You and I are living in the midst of an agricultural revolution," Dr. Raymond W. Miller declared at the closing sessions of the National Methodist Town and Country Conference Monday afternoon.

Speaking on the subject "FAO at Work Balancing Food and People," Dr. Miller stated that the world is just 10 meals from anarchy. If a man misses as few as 10 successive meals, he becomes almost an animal. The continuation of civilization as we know it is dependent on continued food supply, he said.

Dr. Miller is visiting lecturer at Harvard University and consultant to the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. He was speaking to 160 delegates attending the Town and Country Conference which met on the Indiana University campus July 22-25. The purpose of the meeting was to develop a more adequate Christian program in town and country areas.

"The people of underdeveloped countries are anxious to better their condition and they don't want charity in the form of grants and gifts. They do need a great deal of technical assistance," Dr. Miller stated.

The principal work of the conference was carried on in 16 study groups, each considering some phase of the church in rural fields and small communities.

A sharing of the abundance of American farms with the needy throughout the world was recommended by one group while another learned of real concern in government circles and among conservationists that the present food plenty and food surpluses in America may not last many more years. Reasons given for the concern were the rapid increase in population and the release of farm land to non-farm uses such as housing, roads and industry.

Young people in rural areas are finding fewer and fewer farm occupations, one group learned, because of increased productivity and efficiency. The church was called upon to give more adequate guidance to young people in their vocational choice.

Dr. Robert Shaffer, dean of students at Indiana University, pointed out to the group considering Christian vocations that the changing occupational pattern in town and country communities leaves young people more perplexed about their vocational plans. He attributed the changing pattern to the fact that now only 50 per cent of the persons in rural areas work in farm occupations while many rural dwellers commute to and from urban areas to work.

Sen. George Is Hopeful of Meet

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Sen. Walter F. George D-Ga said today that next week's diplomatic talks with Communist China may help "clear the air" to set up a two-nation foreign ministers conference on the Far East.

He told reporters he believed any such conference of foreign ministers should start as bilateral discussions between the United States and Red China.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland insisted that there should be no discussions involving the "sovereignty" of Nationalist China without the Nationalists present.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was expected to be questioned closely at his afternoon news conference on the talks with Red China beginning in Geneva Aug. 1 as well as on George's proposal that the two nation's foreign ministers meet.

PRESIDENT IN REPORT OF BIG 4 CONFERENCE

WAS HEARD BY MILLIONS MONDAY EVENING IN CONFERENCE REPORT

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(UP)—President Eisenhower told the nation Monday night that both the United States and Russia must do "some giving" at next October's foreign ministers' conference if the "generalities" of Geneva are to be moulded into peaceful settlements. He said the fall meeting will be the "acid test" of the cold war opponents' "new spirit of reconciliation and cooperation" brought forth at last week's Big Four conference in Switzerland.

The President made clear that the United States is prepared for conciliation on its part.

He said the Big Four meeting made the world realize even more "that the United States will go to any length consistent with our concepts of decency and justice and right to attain peace."

But, he indicated, Russia must demonstrate its willingness to do the same when Secretary of State John Foster Dulles meets with the other Big Four foreign ministers in Geneva next fall.

While the President did not "belittle the obstacles lying ahead," he expressed hope that the "longing for mankind" for peace will continue to pressure world leaders "to advance constructively, not merely to react the dreary performances of the past."

That pressure for peace was felt at Geneva, he said.

The conference also heightened a "growing realization by all," the President said, "that nuclear warfare, pursued to the ultimate, could be practically race suicide."

Mr. Eisenhower appraised the historic conference in a 15-minute nationwide radio and television broadcast which originated from the White House.

CROWN POINT LEGIONNAIRE IS NAMED AS COM.

CROWN POINT TEACHER ELECTED HEAD OF INDIANA LEGION

INDIANAPOLIS, July 26.—(UP)—Alon Cochran, a former GI from Crown Point, today reigned as state commander of the American Legion following his election at the close of the organization's 37th annual convention.

Cochran is only the second World War II veteran to hold the post. A chemistry teacher, Cochran easily defeated World War I veteran Emory Boyd of Angola in Monday afternoon's balloting.

In a three-way contest, George Coyle, Tell City, and Orin Nowlin, Mitchell, defeated Lowell Spencer, Morristown, for two southern vice commandships.

Lawrence H. Hinds, Indianapolis, defeated Dr. Fred Daugherty, Crawfordsville, for national executive committeeman from Indiana.

James Nasser, Terre Haute, new grand chief of the Indiana 40 and 8, won an ovation when he was introduced to the delegates.

"As far as we're concerned," Nasser told the convention, "we've always had perfect harmony with the Indiana Legion and I hope and pray that it continues."

Elected without opposition were Donald Erhardt, South Bend, and Melvin Hensley, Tip-top, for northern vice commandships; John O. Banks, Fairmont, Alternate executive committeeman; Barnett Breedlove, Indianapolis, finance officer; E. Dewey Burham, Brookston, chaplain, and Robert McNamara, Bloomington, sergeant-at-arms.

Earlier, Lt. Gov. Harold W. Handley told the Legionnaires that President Eisenhower was a "great diplomatic victory" at Geneva. Another speaker, Chief Justice James A. Emmert of the Indiana Supreme Court, declared that the high court "made a mistake" by outlawing free veterans hunting and fishing permits.

The Legion also bypassed action on Governor Craig's plea that it recruit 8,500 volunteers from its membership to help man the state Internal Security Corps.

Passed were three additional resolutions which urged President Eisenhower to "stage positively" the U. S. will defend the Quemoy and Matsu Islands.

Supported the listing by the House Un-American Activities Committee of individuals and organizations suspected of subversion.

Demanding the U. S. take immediate action to free 944 Americans held by the Chinese Reds.

GERMANS MERELY ECHO WHATS THE REDS SAY

BERLIN, July 26.—(UP)—The East German Communists called today for immediate talks on German reunification between the East and West German governments.

Such talks were first proposed by the two top Russian leaders now visiting the Soviet Zone.

The appeal for East-West German talks was made in the Communist Party newspaper Neues Deutschland which said the two governments must negotiate now to prepare for German participation in the October Big Four foreign ministers conference at Geneva.

Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita S. Khrushchev, Soviet Communist Party leader, have repeatedly said that Germans must take part in any deliberations on Germany.

The Communists scheduled a rally for today for the two visiting Soviet leaders who will be the main speakers.

"The call for negotiation between the governments of the German democratic republic Communists and the federal republic now must be raised with doubled emphasis," the Neues Deutschland said.

"All-German talks on a government level should be borne by a powerful movement in all Germany for the bringing together of both parts of Germany and agreement of the German people.

"The first common goal:—End the cold war on German soil."

The authoritative newspaper, like the Soviets, coupled the demand for talks with the demand for a European security pact which it said must take precedence over unity.

It was painting a white strip in the center of highway 43, and sitting close to the pavement behind the vehicle, a huge truck, were two men, one operating the painting machine and the other placing steel pieces over the white paint so that vehicles would not cross over the line and carry the paint away before it dried.

Wife Is Dead, Man Unconscious

NEW CASTLE, Ind., July 26.—(UP)—A post mortem was ordered today into the cause of death of a 17-year-old woman whose pajama-clad body was found in a bed beside her unconscious husband in their three-room apartment here.

Authorities said Mrs. Wanda Jean Morgan had been dead about three days. Her husband, William, 25, was taken to Henry county hospital in serious condition, but he was expected to recover.

Police said the body of Mrs. Morgan was unmarked and there were no signs of foul play. However, liquid in a partly filled bottle and some capsules from another bottle were sent to a laboratory for analysis.

Acting Coroner Melvin Smith said the woman's death could have been caused by a number of things, including food poisoning.

FIRST TEST OF GENEVA COMING LATE THIS WEEK

BIG FOUR COMMITTEE IN DEADLOCK IN THE UNITED NATIONS

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(UP)—First test of the Geneva conference goodwill comes in five weeks when the United Nations picks up the disarmament question again. It has been in deadlock.

The Big Four jointly recommended that the subcommittee of the U. N. Disarmament Commission resume in New York on Aug. 29. Beyond that is the sterner test of an October meeting of the foreign ministers in Geneva. The foreign ministers will have all problems of the summit meeting before them.

But disarmament is part of the basic question of security which divides East and West and contributes so much to their mutual doubts. The instructions of the Big Four to their disarmament sub-committee representatives were significant.

They were, specifically, that the French, British, Russian and United States subcommittees "take account in their work of the views and proposals advanced by the heads of government at this Geneva conference." The language represents an effort to pass on to the subcommittee members the benediction and appearance of mutual trust which was achieved among the Big Four.

If the Geneva atmosphere is to dispel the foggy suspicions in which the disarmament subcommittee has so far breathed uncomfortably, the August 29 and subsequent meetings should at least give a hint of better times to come. On the other hand, the meeting might prove the contrary.

A 10-year-old record of high hopes and disastrous disappointment is sufficient evidence that any hint of a changed Russian attitude toward the basic problems is of vital importance in judging the real worth of the Big Four meeting.

President Eisenhower returned from Geneva an international hero. But he made no cracks such as British Foreign Minister Harold Macmillan's "There ain't gonna be any war." In his first work day at home the President informed congressional leaders that there had been no secret agreements at Geneva. There was no qualification in that assurance.

"Don't make the mistake of forgetting the storage battery on farm power units this summer," warns C. L. Hill, extension agricultural engineer at Purdue University.

Although winter is commonly thought of as the season for battery failure, statistics show that more replacement batteries are bought in the summer. One common occurrence is that the water level in the cells is lowered rapidly by hot weather with a consequent failure of the battery. Dust and dirt, as shown on the battery in the above picture, are a source of trouble and should be removed frequently during summer months. All connections of the ignition system on the tractor should be bright and tightly fashioned to insure good tractor performance and proper charging of the battery while operating, according to Hill.

The bidding:
North East South West
1 Pass 3 Pass
3 Pass 4 Pass
5 Pass 6 All Pass

Mrs. Keen knows this and when the bidding was over in today's hand she inquired politely, "May I lead?"

Mrs. Fusty glanced at her approvingly. "Pray do," she replied solemnly.

Mrs. Keen led the 10 of hearts. And Mrs. Fusty proceeded to prove again that her play of a hand is as good as her manners.

She won with the king of hearts and cashed the ace and king of clubs. She played the ace of hearts and then led the deuce of spades to dummy's king.

SEE SEVEN-ODD
Now if you were casing the possibilities of this contract and could not see the opponents' hands, you could reasonably figure as follows. If the opposing spades break 3-3, you can ruff a third round and set up two good spades on the board for two diamond discards. You will make seven-odd.

If the spades are divided 4-2, you have enough entries in dummy to ruff two spades and then get back for the fifth spade, on which you will take a diamond discard. Here you will make six even if the king of diamonds is wrong.

But as you see the spades were divided 5-1. And since the diamonds are all wrong, it appears that you are down one.

SUSPICIOUS PLAY

Not with Mrs. Fusty playing the hand. She had noted, with some suspicion, Mrs. Keen's play of the eight of spades. At the sixth trick she played the trey of spades from the board.

Mr. Champion looked puzzled. This was crazy. Had the old lady finally made an error? Anyway, he won with the ten—and found himself end-played before the hand was half over.

If he led back the queen of spades, dummy would win with the ace. Mrs. Fusty could then lead the seven through his jack, ruff it out and return to dummy for the good six spot.

Thus she would get two diamond discards—one on the ace of spades and one on the six.

If Mr. Champion returned a diamond, obviously that would give Mrs. Fusty her contract. Desperately, he led a heart, but that was no good either. Mrs. Fusty just pitched a diamond and ruffed dummy. Her last losing diamond went off on the ace of spades.

IRRIGATION INCREASES HAY CROP PRODUCTION

Although Indiana is considered a state with plenty of rainfall, there is drought enough in the state somewhere each year to damage hay and pasture crops. Three years of research at Purdue University have shown that irrigation will almost always add profitable to hay crop production.

Increases have varied from 1,850 pounds of hay per acre to as much as 6,700 pounds per acre, in the tests by Purdue agronomists during the last three years. The agronomists reported that alfalfa under irrigation can be expected to yield five to six tons of hay to an acre.

Irrigation also greatly increased the carrying capacity of pastures for sheep and beef cattle during the 1953 and 1954 grazing seasons. In addition, it permitted good stands of legume-grass mixtures from late-summer seedings, regardless of the length of drought.

Reporting their irrigation tests in a new experiment station publication, the agronomists show that ladino-orchard grass mixtures produced half again more feed per acre under irrigation. With ladino-fescue, ladino-brome-grass, and ladino-bluegrass the yield jumped even more.

Hay yields of alfalfa and grass in Southern Indiana increased from 6,000 pounds per acre to 10,377 pounds last year with irrigation.

About two million acres of naturally drouthy soils can be found in Indiana, the Purdue agronomists point out. Effects of the drought will depend on soil type and the crop being grown. However, over a 10-year period, U. S. Weather Bureau records show that Indiana droughts will average one a year for 21 days or longer, two a year for 16 days or longer and four a year for 11 days or longer.

Other tests reported in Purdue mimeograph AY-129 show the effect of irrigation in getting legume-grass stands established with late summer or early fall seedings. These varied from poor to complete failure for two years on the Purdue agronomy farm when no irrigation water was used. All stands were excellent under irrigated conditions.

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Inside WASHINGTON MARCH OF EVENTS

Economic Weaknesses Soften Soviet Approach Internal Troubles Make Russians More Amenable

Special to Central Press Association
WASHINGTON—Despite strong Soviet denials, many Washington officials are convinced that economic weaknesses in both Russia and Red China are responsible essentially for the new conciliatory attitude of the Kremlin.

Like President Eisenhower, the American officials won't go so far as to say that Russia agreed to the Big Four conference because of internal economic difficulties.

However reports filtering through the Iron and Bamboo Curtains indicate both the Soviets and Red Chinese are facing serious domestic difficulties, particularly in the field of farming.

These reports say that crop failures in the Soviet Union and a threatened famine in China have forced the Red leaders to look sharply at their economic policies.

No one particularly envisages any economic collapse but they do feel that the Red leaders are perfectly willing to accept a "cooling off" period in international affairs so they can mend fences at home.

● SHRUG OFF—Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson may face sharp congressional criticism over his "shrug off" of the "farewell" warning of inadequate United States military strength contained in a letter to Wilson from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway before his retirement as Army chief of staff.

Democratic senators and House members are sure to use Ridgway's detailed criticism of administration defense policies for political ammunition.

Wilson summed up the "farewell letter" as being of "not much importance."

However, Wilson's supporters point out that one reason he kept the letter "secret" for a period of time was so that Ridgway's views could be carefully studied and evaluated.

There also may emerge a demand on the part of Congress for an explanation of why the letter was "leaked" to one publication. Wilson aides contended that all copies of the critical letter had been fully accounted for and they anticipated no possibility that it would be made public at the time it was.

● R.I.P.—If you're worried about whether marble or granite will last longer as a tombstone, forget it.

A United States Bureau of Mines report says it's a toss-up and cites ancient history to prove it.

Cleopatra's Needle, the Egyptian obelisk in New York's Central park, was fashioned of Syene granite 3,500 years ago, the report notes. On the other hand, the temple of Athena Nike at Athens was built of pentellic marble. The report says it was still usable after more than 2,000 years until an invading army kicked it to pieces.

Marble or granite? Purely a matter of individual preference, according to the Mines bureau.

● NO GUATEMALA ORCHID STUDY—Congress has spiked a request by the Agriculture department for funds to conduct research on orchids in Guatemala.

This was one of the strange requests for money that fell by the wayside in this session of Congress.

Another item in the department's budget that fell under the ax of the House and Senate appropriations committees was a request for money to undertake research on "differences in clothing of farm and urban people."

On both projects, the congressional committees ruled that if such projects ever should come into being, it is just as well for the government to muddle along without such knowledge for at least another year.

4-H GIRL WINNERS

For the past several years girls 4-H exhibits have been judged prior to the Fair. The plan is for the girls to exhibit their products in their local counties, where they are judged and ribbon awards made. These same products are then brought to the County Fair where they are on public display.

The county judging got underway on July 20 with the first exhibit being held at the Cloverdale school building. To date judging has been completed also in Jefferson, Greencastle, Marion and Floyd townships. Following are the completion results of the girls projects:

YOUR MONEY

Is it safe—and is it really working hard for you?

As any experienced businessman will tell you, part of your earnings should go into a savings account which is not subject to market fluctuations. When you open an account there are two basic things to look for:

One is safety. The other is a good return on your money.

Where are you sure to get both of these things? In an insured Savings and Loan Association! That's why more and more prudent Americans now choose to put their savings in these Associations.

Briefly, here's what they offer:

You get excellent returns. That's because these Associations invest most of their funds in sound, steady-paying home mortgages.

Your money is safe. It is protected by sound management and substantial reserves. It is insured up to $10,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation—an agency of the U.S. Government.

You deal with friendly, experienced people. Responsible people. People who know how to make your money work hard for you.

Remember, too, that insured Savings and Loan Associations are also the nation's largest single source of home mortgage loans. When you're thinking of buying or building a home, they can be of tremendous help to you because they make liberal loans. They see to it that you get the money quickly—and at moderate rates.

You really owe it to yourself to get acquainted with the insured Savings and Loan Association nearest you, whether you're interested in opening a savings account or talking about a home mortgage loan.
